TUESDAY, MAY 23.

During the past year there have been eliminated on the roads of the State system in South Carolina for 'dry' grade crossings. The improvement has been effected either by relocation or by providing bridges or under-passes.

The News agrees with the Columbia State when that paper editorially states that it "has no pleasure in expressing its regret that Governor Cooper should retire from office, saw fit to resign."

No doubt Governor Cooper's action in this matter was governed by the recommendation of the pardon board, judges, solicitors, citizens, etc., had to say. However, considering the opinion of the pardon board has been and continues to be, entirely too much pardoning. The wholesale pardoning of criminals has a very bad effect upon the "right to criminal," and doubtless many men think of the probability of securing a pardon before they are sent to prison.

The News has been a Cooperator since Governor Cooper first offered to the office of Governor of South Carolina, but it regrets exceeding 18 convicts just before his retirement from the high office of Governor of South Carolina.

BAPTIST CONVENTION

VENGEANCE BY MOB
Failure to Venge Trial Undermines
Law. Convention Claims on Will
Hays to Clean Up Moving Picture
Business.

Jacksonville, May 22.—Hob rule was denounced at the closing session of the Southern Baptist convention here today both by speakers and in the adoption of the report of the commission on social service which declared that every person charged with crime is entitled to a fair trial and that "any other procedure is mob rule and if adopted generally will ultimately undermine and overthrow everything we hold dear."

"We can not too strongly urge upon our pastors and churches the importance of not becoming allied with or giving approval and support to any movement or organization which violates or tends to violate these sacred and fundamental principles," continued the report. There was no specific reference to any organization either in the report or in debate.

The report requested of President Harding that the government cooperate in taking steps against Turbans in the Near East, pointing out that Great Britain requested such cooperation from other countries. Race track gambling, the hoodlums and violation of the Sabbath name in for expressions of disapproval in the report, which also asked a strict censorship of each state in motion pictures and voiced the hope that Will H. Hays will exercise what is supposed to be his great power for a thorough clean up in the whole picture business.

William Jennings Bryan was invited to address the convention in Kansas City next year and Dr. E. Y. Mullins, president of the convention, was named to head the delegation to the Stockholm Baptist conference in July, 1923. The convention also instructed its committee on hospitals to report next year what is being done towards religious training of student nurses in Baptist hospitals.

Other resolutions stated, "We express our appreciation of full reports on the convention sent throughout the country by the general news agencies and especially thanks of the body be extended to the Associated Press."

These resolutions and one deprecating the hearing of a speaker at one of the sessions were adopted on the preceding social service committee's report. Debate on that was lengthy and during it the Rev. J. J. Taylor, D. D., of Lexington, a vice president of the convention, delivered an address against "Mobs Rule" in general and recent burning of negroes. Congressman W. D. Upshaw of Georgia and other speakers joined in speaking against lawless outbreaks without going into specific instances.

There is no good in the motion picture," declared the Rev. W. E. Hunt of Somerset, Ky., who with other messengers sought to amend the report in order to register approval of the motion picture and not to deal with reformers, but A. J. Barton of Alexandria, La.,

THE SLEUTHS CHECK NECKWEAR CHOICES

By Jane Compton
New York, May 18.—If when you are in New York you see a man on the corner gazing fixedly at your necktie, he isn't figuring out a way to pinch your scarf pin. He is only making deductions, and deciding whether you are a bank president or a street sweeper. In short he is a sleuth.

Dogs of the street were posted today along Fifth avenue, and at important street intersections as well as in the lobbies of the principal hotels. They were put there by the Associated Men's Neckwear Industries, Incorporated. They were put there to carry out the theory that you can tell a man by the tie he wears. They will take a census which will be of immense value to tie manufacturers in the future.

"Red and green plaid," muttered a sentinel at Forty-second street and Broadway. "That's the eighth I've seen and seven of them on little boys' clerks." Whereupon he entered his report in a book.

"They're wearing dark brown herringbones," reported a watcher at Thirty-fourth street and the Avenue. "Scarlet means an insurance agent, green a professor; black and red and grey a musical expert."

He blinked rapidly as three maudlin passed in quick succession. "A black tie," he muttered. "The average New Yorker, it appears, goes in for a dark silk tie with a fine stripe or some plain, light-colored stripe. A narrow four-inch band is more popular than the bow tie, even though summer and the western some appreciate the scarf pin appears they are inconspicuous for the solemn truth is that scarf pins on New York men are as scarce as gold beads on New York women."

The second most popular tie, especially for younger men, is the polka-dot silk. Blue and white is first choice. Brown and white comes second, with green and white third. College gentlemen are very popular with the younger set, and after them comes small diamond or square patterns in the folds of the sea.

"Bright colors and temperaments go together," said a downtown sleuth in a hat. "A man who wears a polka-dot tie is a cheerful, good-natured fellow. I began checking up on this corner," he added and began enumerating the various professions to which the various owners of the ties probably belonged.

"Just then a man passed with a striped scarf in place and a bow tie. At him the sleuth gave a knowing glance.

"Him?" he repeated, not without a mischievous grin. "He is a professional, poor chap, he's just her husband."

REPUBLICANS IN ROW OVER POSTMASTERSHIP

Washington, May 18.—Republicans are in a row over the postmastership at Canton. This morning F. R. Mease, the democratic incumbent, wired in his resignation. Two Republicans are after the job. C. F. Smathers and B. C. Bradley. Smathers is said to have the best chance, with postal officials ready to name him. The local committee is up in arms and is trying to get Bradley. The services of Representative Stephens in the matter were asked by one of his friends in Canton. Mr. Stephens referred the matter to Mr. Weaver. The committee is on the way here to protest against Smathers.

MARYLAND PASTOR FAVORS KISSING

Rockville, Md. May 18.—Outward demonstrations of love are of material benefit in making what love permanent, advise experts to the contrary notwithstanding Ask Rev. Dr. P. W. Rowland Wagner, he knows.

Dr. Wagner is pastor of the First Baptist church here. He is affectionately known in Washington and Baltimore as the "marrying pastor." A record of 675 couples in four years—most of which stuck—gives him his place in the marrying hall of a divine institution, but he makes it very plain that the interested parties are equally responsible for the matrimonial voyage is to be a smooth one.

All Rockville lately was discussing with keen relish a few genuine truths which the genial minister spilled last night at a church session. He took occasion to hand out good advice to both married and single.

"Watch your step, girls," he suggested, "a marriage license is not a permanent meal ticket. Neither is it a credit account at the dry goods store or the dressmaker's establishment."

"You have no need to be ashamed of your affection. Kissing is all right. It is one of the finest institutions leading up to the wedding, and it is the tie that binds after the ring is on the bride's finger."

"If kissing was not sanitary the doctors would all abstain. If kissing was not legal the lawyers would abstain. If kissing was not good, it is certain that the pastors would abstain. Do any of them abstain and refrain? You're right, they do not. 'If there was a machine to measure the diars kisses that I have witnessed since I moved to Rockville and have watched right here in the parsonage it would have been broken long ago.'

"It all depends on the couple themselves. If their wedding tie is to be one of unalloyed bliss. Before the girls get married there are a lot of things they make with their hands. This is not always so afterward."

"Have been the man who marries a woman who can't cook. Take a tip from me, girls, feed him and feed him well. If you do so you always will remain on the right side of the counter. A man must eat, and he must have his food properly prepared."

"As for the men, they must remember that a wife is not only a housekeeper. She is a partner in the business of life. The man who marries must realize this at all times."

The "Rev." as he is best known is credited with being the most popular man in the county. His parsonage is the center for most of the couples who elope from Washington and Baltimore.

THINGS OUT OF WHACK.

There is something vitally wrong with the business and government of a country when the agricultural industry is floundering in bankruptcy while certain special privileged financial and other lines of industry are in a condition of prosperity. The farmers, generally, are without resources or credits and heavily involved in debt. The prices of staple farm products continue far below the cost of production even though demand has increased for such products very materially within the last six months. Union labor has generally maintained the inflated wages forced upon the country during the World War and the daily wages of such labor is being stabilized by governmental authority so far as the railroads are concerned. Union labor, engaged in the various crafts and industrial occupation, is receiving an average of from five to eight dollars for eight hours' work per day. Farm laborers in the cotton belt, whether working for wages or as tenants or share-croppers, are unable to earn an average of more than fifty-cents per day, working on an average of twelve hours.

Railroad rates have so far been practically undisturbed by deflation because of the stabilization of such rates by Federal authority. Interest rates on loans to farmers continue as high as the law will permit to avoid the violation of usury laws. There are so many retail merchants going into bankruptcy and settling with creditors for from ten to twenty cents on the dollar cost, that it is paralyzing the trade of those merchants who have so far been able to weather the storms of artificially enforced deflation during the past two years.

It is generally conceded by expert statisticians who have investigated the situation that the American farmers as a whole have sustained losses in the values of their farm products since the summer of 1920, aggregating the enormous total of Twelve Billion Dollars. This equals the cost of the World War to the nation. The estimated net losses of deflation to the cotton growers alone in 1920 and 1921 on the drop in the price of cotton alone, is placed at $2,300,000,000. These losses are estimated on farm products and do not include the heavy depreciation in land values and farm improvements. It is known that a very large proportion of these enormous losses on the values of farm products and depreciation in lands, is still represented in unliquidated obligations held by local bankers, supply merchants, fertilizer dealers and other institutions in the form of frozen or uncollectable credits. As these debts were contracted during a period of the highest inflation of money, labor and supplies, it becomes a question of serious concern as to how and in what way or how fast they can be liquidated with deflated money and a continuing market which will not pay the cost of producing staple farm products.

The Federal Reserve Board has recently taken the position that all short-term farmers' loans re-liquidated by that system will be only for planting, cultivating and harvesting crops and not for the purpose of holding farm products off the market for slow and orderly selling. This construction of the law will make it imperative for farmers whose paper has been re-devalued by that system to sell their cotton as soon as ginned or other products no matter whether such markets be cluttered and prices below cost of production or not. Any system of agricultural finance based upon such arbitrary rules and enforcement will wreck the markets and bankrupt the farmers. The arbitrary rulings and official dictation are not enforced by the Federal Reserve banks in any other line of business or industry. The farmers have been singled out to be made the "goat" at a time when they are in a helpless financial condition and unable to protect themselves. Rehabilitation of American farm life will be impossible under these conditions and Congress should, without delay, enact an agricultural credits system absolutely divorced from the Federal Reserve banks.

The first week of the operation of the Chester Creamery netted a little more than 500 pounds of butter. The past week we are informed from the creamery, reports that they are enjoying good business and expect a substantial increase as the weather becomes warmer. Those who are not informed on the subject have no idea of the amount of cream sold in a community and it is surprising when you see just how much cream people eat. A matter of considerable local interest is the fact that the new modern and commodious Baptist church at Great Falls will be opened next Sunday, a special program being prepared for the occasion. C. E. Burns, general secretary, will be present as well as a number of other ministers from various sections. An excellent program has been arranged for both morning and evening services. An evangelistic meeting in the new church, with the first Sunday in June, the preaching to be done by Dr. F. H. Martin, pastor of the First Baptist church at Florence. Mr. Frank E. McCarty, of Laurens, will have charge of the singing. The public is cordially invited to all of that service. With the opening of this church Great Falls has one of the newest and most modern churches in this section and one which the community should feel very proud of.

What came near being a serious accident occurred Sunday afternoon, when little Caldwell Barron, small son of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Barron, climbed into his father's car which was standing in front of their residence on Oakland avenue, and with little four-year-old Dorothy Willis in his side, decided to take a ride. In some way he managed to start the car, which ran into a car standing in front of the Willis home. The little fellow was thrown out, and sustained a painful cut on his head, which received immediate attention at the Fennell Infirmary. It being necessary to take several stitches in the wound. Had it not been for the Willis car standing directly in front of the Barron car and only a few feet away, the result would probably have been more serious—Rock Hill Record.

With returns received from all States, the United States Bureau of Public Roads reports that the motor vehicle registration for the year 1921 totaled 14,446,612. This represents an increase of more than a million over the 1920 figures, or a number equal to the total number at the beginning of 1915. The greatest increase in registration were in industrial sections, the agricultural sections showing a smaller amount of increase. No State reported a registration less than the 1920 figures. The total amount collected as fees of various kinds amounted to $122,478,654. It has been expected that the registrations this year would show a greater, standing off in the rate of increase than the figures reported above. The increase this year continues approximately the same average rate that has been maintained for the last several years and shows no indication of the near approach of the condition of saturation in the supply of "motor vehicles."

ELECTRIC SHOCK KILLS YORK MAN

Fellow Employee Turns on Current by Mistake, Robert Quinn, World War Veteran, Meets Instant Death at Oil Mill.

York, May 22.—Robert Quinn, 34 years old, and yard superintendent of the York Oil Company, met a sudden death here this afternoon when an employee misunderstood a command of his and turned the electric current on a wire he was adjusting. Five hundred and fifty volts passed through his body causing death within a few minutes.

The accident occurred at the ice making plant where two employees had just run a ground wire. Nothing was wrong with the wire, but it was wrapped around the stake. Mr. Quinn stepped outside to tighten it. He caught for those inside to draw in the noise he was using, it is said, and in the same way by the machinery his words were misunderstood by Will Quinn, an 18 year old employee, who turned on the current. The fact that Mr. Quinn was standing on wet ground made the charge all the more deadly.

Mr. Quinn was a veteran of the World war and was widely and favorably known. Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Lucia Reid Ewart Quinn, to whom he was married ten months ago, his father, Felix Quinn, a sister and six brothers, two of the latter being Sheriff Fred E. Quinn and Deputy Sheriff D. T. Quinn.

PATRONS AND PUBLIC INVITED TO ATTEND

Invited to Attend Exhibits at Withers Building, This Afternoon, Four Until Six o'clock.

The patrons and the public in general are most cordially invited to attend the Manual Training and Domestic Science exhibit, Tuesday afternoon, May 23rd from five to 7:30 o'clock, at the Withers Building. I want to see that these young people have done the best in their preparation for the future. They have come of their own volition, and have done many hours of extra work in order that this exhibit might be for your appreciation. Now, won't you encourage them by your presence?

These boys and girls have worked every afternoon for the past two weeks getting ready for this exhibit. They have come of their own volition, and have done many hours of extra work in order that this exhibit might be for your appreciation. Now, won't you encourage them by your presence?

ment in the State penitentiary. As is locally known the three men were charged with the brutal murder of Mr. John C. Arnette, at his filling station in Columbia, about two weeks ago. It was one of the most brutal murders in the history of the State and one which has attracted wide attention.

The trial cost the county of Richmond approximately $1,150.

A WELL-BEHAVED CROWD. The behavior of the thousands of more Shriners gathered in Rock Hill last Thursday is above criticism. They were a fine bunch of good fellows, having a good time, but they behaved themselves like the gentlemen they are.

There was not even one unpleasant incident noted throughout the lively day. These men were here for innocent pleasure, and they got plenty of it.

It is a source of pleasure to us to note the fact that the visitors were kind in their praise of the genuine hospitality accorded them by the people of Rock Hill. They take away with them the warmest recollections of the good people of a good town—Rock Hill Record.
